

Dr. Nahum Willard (1733-1792) of Worcester

According to Lincoln's history of Worcester, Willard was born in Lancaster, 1733; probably settled in Worcester about 1755; and removed to Uxbridge after the Revolution; he died in 1792.

1764 August 5 (Sunday). [Worcester.] Mr. Maccarty goes to Oxford, for Mr. Bowman, who preaches for me, and I for Mr. Maccarty.... At Eve Mr. Maccarty returned from Oxford, but I tarried where I was.

1764 August 6 (Monday). In the Morning Mr. M. and I walked to Dr. Willards. N.B. he has lately bought Universal History in 21 Volumes.

1773 September 23 (Thursday). We returned to Worcester.... I was at Mr. Putnams, Dr. Willards, at Judge Chandlers.
